Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 02 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A fine start. Becoming wet and occasionally windy later.

Today:
A dry, mainly bright start, but cloud thickening to bring persistent and at times heavy rain by early afternoon, this continuing through the rest of the day. Winds strengthening after midday with gales possible near eastern coasts by late afternoon. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy rain and strong winds easing through the evening and becoming dry by midnight with clear periods developing overnight, especially in the west. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Sunday:
A much brighter day with plenty of sunshine through the morning. Becoming rather breezy by the afternoon. Most parts staying dry, though the odd shower is possible. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Sunshine and showers through Monday, heavy at times and perhaps thundery. Likely becoming wet and windy again on Tuesday, then an improving picture Wednesday as rain and strong winds ease.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.